Ontario's fall economic update Thursday contained a mixed bag for consumers, introducing a 10 per cent rebate program for electricity bills while admitting hydro rates will jump 46 per cent over the next five years.

Electricity rates will continue to rise as the province shifts away from coal-fired generation to renewable, green energy sources for which the government pays much higher prices, and will only start to moderate after 2015, said Finance Minister Dwight Duncan.

The 10 per cent Ontario Clean Energy Benefit will be applied after all other items on the electricity bills, including taxes, and will kick in starting Jan. 1. The rebates may not show up on utility bills until next May, but they will be retroactive until the start of the year.

The opposition parties call the cut in electricity bills a blatant attempt by the Liberals to buy votes before next fall's election, although they support the idea of giving consumers a break.

Duncan also announced a 50-year extension of a contract with Teranet, the company that operates the province's electronic land registry.

No bull: Diet determines hot air

Statistics have been giving us a bum steer when they state how much cattle methane emissions contribute to global warming, a new study shows.

That's because mathematical equations used to predict cows' methane emissions are inaccurate and don't take into account factors such as dietary changes, said Jennifer Ellis, lead author of the study and a PhD student at the University of Guelph.

When cattle burp up their cud, they discharge methane with it, due to microbial fermentation occurring in their complex stomachs.

"Diet can change CH4 (methane) emissions quite a lot," she said. "As a crude comparison, a typical dairy cow will produce as much (in carbon dioxide) equivalents per month as a mid-size car does travelling 800 kilometres per month. Changes (of) two to 12 per cent of the energy intake can be the difference between that cow being a compact car and an SUV or truck," she added.

When an equation calculates the quantity of methane emissions on one farm, it can't be used to accurately determine how much greenhouse gas is created worldwide because there is so much difference in cattle diet around the world and from farm to farm. TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

Stop, look, listen are good basic safety principles, police say

A rash of collisions in Toronto has left one pedestrian dead and at least 15 more hurt in two days, police say. The latest victim is a 10-year-old girl who was taken to hospital with head injuries Thursday morning after being hit in the city's east end.

The woman who died took a fatal step off a curb Wednesday morning, and unwittingly walked into the path of a truck.

Police say there is usually a spike in the number of pedestrian-related accidents this time of year.

It's just after the end of daylight time so darkness comes earlier, and pedestrians start to wear heavier, darker clothing that may make them hard to spot, or could block their vision.

Toronto police Sgt. Tim Burrows said the heavy rain and stiff winds in the city over the past couple of days are likely contributing factors as well.

"Pedestrians sometimes want to get out of the elements really quick," he said. "They may sacrifice their own personal safety doing that, not taking that extra precaution of stopping, looking, listening — the good basic safety principles that protect us all." THE CANADIAN PRESS

"At the end of the day, everybody is responsible for their own safety. I don't think there's anything the police can do to make it any better."

▶ Dave Murray has taken his passions for typography and old signs and turned them into word cloud posters that paint an image of Toronto neighbourhoods.

Artist paints portrait of the city — in words

Word clouds are illustrations that base the size of words on how frequently they appear

On a blustery day in November, Dave Murray is on a sign-hunting mission in Leslieville.

"Firewood. There's a good one you don't see every day," he says, approaching a padlocked cage with a painted wooden sign advertising kindling for $7.99. He scribbles a note in his Moleskine.

Murray, a 24-year-old artist and recent Sheridan College graduate, is mapping Toronto with word clouds.

He starts by trekking through a neighbourhood and taking notes on signs in the area. Then he plots the words on a map, basing their size and placement on where and how often they appear. The result is a unique portrait.

"It's visualizing one's neighbourhood geography in a way that's not visually based," says Murray.

A lot of signs repeat themselves — coffee, barber, parking lot — but Murray delights in the unusual words he finds on Toronto streets.

"Double Triple Loaders," spotted outside a coin laundry, is a great one. "I Buy Your Jewellery," emblazoned on a pawnshop window, is wonderfully tacky.

Murray's word cloud project started as a school assignment and evolved out of his love for vintage signs and typography. His first map was of the Kensington Market.

Now the St. Catharines native has three complete maps of Kensington, the Ossington Strip, and Queen West and Parkdale.

When he finishes Leslieville in a few weeks, he plans to start on the Junction.

Serial shoplifter agrees to drug treatment program

DAN ROBSON/TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

▶ Anthony Bennett

The serial shoplifter at the centre of the David Chen citizen's arrest case was granted $500 bail Thursday on three unrelated theft charges in Chinatown.

Provincial court Judge William Bassel released Anthony Bennett, 52, with several conditions, including that he attend a 28-day drug treatment program.

The success of the treatment program will affect his sentencing on Dec. 17, Bennett's lawyer and the Crown attorney agreed, according to Bassel.

"I hope this drug treatment works for him this time. It didn't work before," his wife Linda St. Louis said outside the courthouse. "He's a good man and a good father."

The couple have been together for 30 years and have six children.

Bennett pleaded guilty to three counts of theft for stealing flowers on three different dates this summer at the Jungle Fruit Mart on Kensington Avenue.

Shopkeeper Chen, who was in court, was exonerated last month on charges of assault and forcible confinement after chasing and tying up Bennett last May during a theft at his own store, Loose Moose Food Market in Chinatown.

Also in court was Jeff Ng, owner of Jungle Fruit Mart, who will return Dec. 17 to deliver a victim impact statement.

Ng will also ask the court to extend for three years the court order that bars Bennett from the Kensington Market and Chinatown areas.

Bennett is enrolled in the Turning Point Program of the Salvation Army Maxwell Meighen Centre at 135 Sherbourne St.

G8 FUND IN CLEMENT'S RIDING NEVER MEANT TO SUPPORT SUMMIT, OFFICIALS SAY

Federal officials say the $50-million G8 legacy fund spent in Industry Minister Tony Clement's riding wasn't ever meant to directly support the summit in Huntsville, Ont., last June.

Rather, they say the money was meant to compensate Muskoka communities for their trouble as they sought to spruce themselves up for the international meeting.

"The funding was very much designed to assist the region to prepare for the hosting of the international summit, as well as in part to compensate the region for the inconveniences of hosting an event of this magnitude," said Bryce Conrad, an assistant deputy minister at Infrastructure Canada. He and other officials were on the hot seat at a parliamentary committee hearing on Thursday, answering questions about how $1.3 billion in summit funding was spent.

The $50-million legacy fund went in part to building summit infrastructure in Huntsville, but it also paid for landscaping, a gazebo, sidewalk repaving and historical plaques in towns far from the summit.

In Parry Sound, about 80 kilometres from the summit, Clement announced $1.1 million to upgrade a street and replace trees, and another $194,000 for a large "welcome granite stone" and lighting for a concert. Opposition MPs argue the money was a slush fund to shore up voter support for Clement, noting that no such fund was set up to help Toronto deal with the G20 meeting.

Pickering boy sets unbe-leaf-able world record

More than 275,000 people attempted records worldwide Thursday In Ancaster, Ont., 1,861 students set record for the largest Macarena dance

GRAEME ROY/THE CANADIAN PRESS

▶ Nine-year-old Joseph Donato, of Pickering, Ont., shows off his giant maple leaf in a Toronto park on Thursday.

Joseph Donato's giant maple leaf might not last forever, but the nine-year-old from Pickering, Ont., will probably remember it forever.

He marked Guinness World Records Day on Thursday by proudly displaying the giant specimen that he picked up on his way home from a park last month.

Without the stem, the leaf measures more than 34 by 29 centimetres, bigger than some serving platters. Joseph is trying to preserve it in a picture frame.

"It's wrinkled up. It's shrunk about a teeny weeny bit, but still really big," said the Grade 4 student, describing how the leaf has changed since he discovered it on a bike ride in mid-October.

"It's kind of lost some of its colour, but we can still tell it's a leaf."

Joseph said he was really excited when he saw the leaf. He's a fan of the "Guinness World Records" books — they're in his school library — and he searched online to see if there was a category for his leaf, but couldn't find one.

Instead, the family took photos of him in the backyard with the leaf and sent them to the local paper. Before long, Joseph said he got a call from a television station and then from Guinness representatives.

"They're going to start a new category for my leaf," he said. "So I'm setting that new record and it's a better chance of getting that in the book because they always want new records."

All the attention has one possible downside. "People are jealous at school," he confided, and they're trying to find bigger leaves.

His mom, Angie Donato, said she doesn't think the whole experience would have gone anywhere except the backyard if it wasn't for Joseph.

"The reason why this all happened is because he dreamed big," she said.

"I think if it was an adult or someone else, we might have looked at it, maybe picked it up, but didn't think about, you know, 'Could it be Guinness big?' and 'How big is it?"

Around the world

The Guinness Records organization announced numerous other records Thursday, including:

- Largest tug-of-war with 1,290 participants, in the Netherlands
- Largest samba dance, in Brazil, with 800 people
- Most nationalities in a sauna, with 91 represented, in Germany

Demonstrators protest Green Choice initiative

Hotel workers, politicians, labour leaders disrupt Sheraton Centre meeting to protest incentive that reduces work for hotel housekeeping staff

About 20 hotel workers, politicians and labour leaders barged into a morning housekeeping meeting at the downtown Sheraton Centre Thursday to protest a Green Choice initiative they say takes jobs away.

Former MPP Peggy Nash led the charge of workers carrying mops and brooms into the meeting, catching hotel staff off guard.

Sheraton Centre security was called, but the protesters wouldn't leave and, ultimately, two Toronto police officers were called to usher the activists out of the building. They were demanding a meeting with the hotel's general manager, Tony Dunn.

ANDREW WALLACE/TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

▶ Former MPP Peggy Nash

Manager Marsha Ray met with the protesters but said she was not authorized to speak for Dunn, who was not expected at the hotel until later in the day.

The hotel's "Make a Green Choice" program offers guests who stay more than one night an incentive, such as a $5 meal voucher or loyalty points, to refuse housekeeping services.

Protesters say this should not be confused with programs that ask guests to reuse towels and sheets. They say the program costs housekeeping jobs and causes injuries to workers because it is harder to clean rooms that have not been cleaned for several days. About 200 housekeeping workers at the hotel are represented by United Local 75.

Her quest: To make lives better

Student helped by a mentor wants to inspire a new generation

Shanika Mallawaratchi was the type of student who was keen to get involved.

Choir, the yearbook committee, reading club and mural painting were among her activities.

But she admits there were parts of her life where she lacked confidence.

In Grade 8, she got the confidence boost she needed as a participant in a program created by kids.now, a national group mentoring charity that helps young people build life skills.

Now 21 and a fourth-year student at York University, Mallawaratchi plans to pursue a career in teaching. Meanwhile, she hopes to be able to give back to another generation of youngsters as a newly minted mentor with kids.now.

She and her own mentor, Jennifer Fry, attended a special reception held at the private suite of Ontario's lieutenant-governor for the launch of the charity's "Who's Your Mentor?" campaign.

The online video series enlists the help of notable athletes, businesspeople, community leaders and media personalities.

"The most important thing is we want people to understand that they've got the power to mentor," said kids.now president and founder Janet King.

Ex-teacher guilty — and not guilty

A former Brampton middle school gym teacher has been found not guilty of sexually assaulting several students.

But Justice Casey Hill found there was enough evidence to convict Michael Plews, 47, of assaulting three former students, who attended Robert H. Lagerquist Senior Public School between 2004-06 when he taught phys-ed and coached the girls' volleyball team.

Hill said Plews' conduct was "suspicious." But the Crown failed to prove his "assaultive behaviour was sexual in nature."

"(Plews' behaviour) progressed from minor touchings to roughhousing, even mauling his students."
JUSTICE CASEY HILL

Plews' sentencing hearing is set for Jan. 7.

Three killed in Pickering plane crash

Durham Regional Police report three people were killed after a small plane crashed Thursday night in a field northeast of Toronto. Police said the single-engine, four-seater Beech 33 went down in north Pickering.

Sgt. Nancy VanRooy said a police helicopter was sent out after the plane disappeared from radar around 7 p.m.

The crew found the crash site in a field near Highway 407, in the Whitevale Road and Sideline 24 area.

News reports said the plane was used by Seneca College, which has a flight training centre. The age and gender of the victims was not released at press time. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Premiers hail long-sought pact

N.L., N.S. agree to scaled-back version of Lower Churchill venture Deal still subject to regulatory approval, ratification by Labrador's Innu people

RHONDA HAYWARD/THE CANADIAN PRESS

▶ Newfoundland and Labrador Premier Danny Williams, left, and Nova Scotia Premier Darrell Dexter raise their hands at a news conference in St. John's, where on Thursday they signed a $6.2-billion deal to develop the Lower Churchill hydroelectric project in Labrador.

Premier Danny Williams seized at least part of what has become a political holy grail in his province with a $6.2-billion deal to develop the Lower Churchill hydroelectric project in Labrador with help from Nova Scotia.

A beaming Williams touted the joint venture Thursday as an economic breakthrough for Newfoundland and Labrador, Atlantic Canada and the country as a whole.

It's also a chance to break Quebec's grip on his province's renewable energy resources, he said.

The scrappy premier left no doubt that his drive to bypass Quebec and bring power through Nova Scotia using subsea cables was fuelled by the 1969 agreement to develop Churchill Falls power.

Under that deal, Quebec has reaped more than $19 billion in profits while Newfoundland has pocketed only $1 billion, according to the Newfoundland and Labrador government. The deal doesn't expire until 2041.

"Several decades after that deal was signed, it remains as a defining moment in our history that has served as a warning to the generations who followed of what not to do."

Under the term sheet announced Thursday, Newfoundland and Labrador's Crown utility, Nalcor Energy, would spend $2.9 billion to build a power generating facility at Muskrat Falls capable of producing 824 megawatts of electricity.

Under the agreement, Nova Scotia would receive 170 megawatts of energy annually — about eight to 10 per cent of the province's total power needs — for 35 years, via a 180-kilometre subsea link between Cape Ray, N.L., and Lingan, N.S.

"This is our CPR (Canadian Pacific Railway)," Nova Scotia Premier Darrell Dexter said of a project that would mean thousands of jobs. "This strengthens us as a region, but ultimately in so many categories it builds the country."

THE CANADIAN PRESS

"Giveaways are a thing of the past ... Quebec will no longer determine the fate of Newfoundland and Labrador and one of the most attractive, clean energy projects in North America."
NEWFOUNDLAND PREMIER DANNY WILLIAMS

MIDDLE EAST

Build, baby, build

Israel insisted Thursday it would keep building homes in disputed east Jerusalem, threatening to hold up a U.S.-proposed settlement construction moratorium designed to renew deadlocked Mideast peacemaking.

The contours of the moratorium deal, as presented by Israeli officials after Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu returned from the U.S. last week, had appeared clearly agreed upon.

Washington, they said, had agreed to exclude the eastern sector of the holy city from the 90-day moratorium and there would be no further demands for construction curbs in the West Bank.

In a speech Thursday, Netanyahu suggested agreement was neither imminent nor inevitable.

▶ A tourist smokes marijuana at a coffee shop called Atmosphere in Amsterdam.

The new conservative Dutch government wants to force the country's marijuana cafes to become "members only" clubs, a move that would effectively block foreigners from buying the drug.

If the idea ever becomes reality it would be the latest of the country's liberal policies to be scrapped or curtailed as the Dutch rethink the limits of their famed tolerance.

Minister plugs Fly Emirates

U.A.E. AFFAIR Defence Minister Peter MacKay told a Conservative senator on Wednesday that the ruckus over airline landing rights cost Canada the use of a key military base and that it will take 10 years to repair relations with the U.A.E.

He made the comments to Senator Michael Meighen, who had asked MacKay why he was wearing a Fly Emirates baseball cap. The remarks were heard by Astral Media Ottawa reporter Daniel Proussalidis, who was standing with the pair.

Harper takes new exit plan to NATO

PM will be seeking assurances from Karzai at Lisbon summit, having extended Canada's Afghanistan mission

SEAN KILPATRICK/THE CANADIAN PRESS

▶ Prime Minister Stephen Harper departs from the Ottawa airport on Thursday for the NATO summit in Lisbon.

After months of tension with his western allies, Afghan President Hamid Karzai meets NATO leaders this week to reassure them he is fully committed to a security handover by 2014.

Karzai joins Prime Minister Stephen Harper and other NATO leaders at the alliance's summit Friday and Saturday. He could face a rough reception after calling recently for an end to night raids and other combat operations by American-led forces in his country.

Harper's office could not say whether he would hold a formal bilateral discussion with Karzai, but the Canadian official suggested the Afghan leader needed to reach out to his NATO counterparts.

"They will expect President Karzai to make a very strong commitment to the transition," he said. "They will also want to hear him on the transition leading to 2014, how that is actually unfolding and support that."

Afghanistan's ambassador to Canada said it is entirely fair for NATO leaders to seek those assurances from Karzai.

"It goes without saying that without the Afghans doing their share, there will be no transition. It's absolutely predicated on that," said Afghan envoy Jawed Ludin.

Summit preview

Harper and his fellow 27 NATO leaders will be joined by 20 other allies in two days of meetings that will include a discussion of the alliance's exit strategy for Afghanistan.

- Canada will send military trainers to Afghanistan until March 2014, at which time the NATO-led mission hopes to begin scaling back.
- The U.S. is expected to announce its phased transition of security duties to Afghan forces by 2014 in Lisbon.
- That transition will begin early next year and extend to the end of 2014, across Afghanistan's 34 provinces, said Doug Lute, U.S. President Barack Obama's special assistant for Afghanistan and Pakistan.

Veteran settles privacy suit against Ottawa

Bruyea: 'We are so grateful and humbled by all the support we received from Canadians across the country'

A military veteran, whose sensitive medical files were passed around by federal bureaucrats in an apparent effort to discredit him, has settled his lawsuit with the government of Canada.

Sean Bruyea, a leading advocate for better treatment of wounded veterans and their families and a sharp critic of current government policy, announced the settlement Thursday. "My wife and I are relieved that after five years of despair we have taken back ownership of our lives," Bruyea said in a statement.

Bruyea, who served in the Gulf War, launched a $400,000 suit in September after he discovered that his files had been accessed by hundreds of federal bureaucrats, including policy-makers.

THE CANADIAN PRESS

▶ Sean Bruyea

Privacy commissioner Jennifer Stoddart ruled this fall that Bruyea's case was "alarming" and the treatment of his personal information was "entirely inappropriate."

"The veteran's sensitive medical and personal information was shared — seemingly with no controls — among departmental officials who had no legitimate need to see it," Stoddart said at the time.

His story generated a huge backlash when it was made public by The Canadian Press, and Bruyea subsequently received a personal apology from Veterans Affairs Minister Jean-Pierre Blackburn.

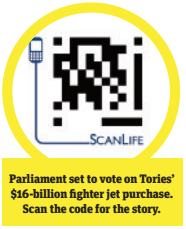
Pilot forced to eject as military jet goes down

Weather conditions, darkness made locating pilot difficult ◗ Blakie set off flare to attract rescue team

A Canadian Forces pilot is in good condition after ejecting from his CF-18 fighter jet before it crashed in darkness during final approach to a northern Alberta air base.

A military spokesman says Capt. Darren Blakie was at the controls when his plane went down in a field 13 kilometres northwest of Canadian Forces Base Cold Lake a few minutes before midnight on Wednesday.

Lt. David Lavallee says Blakie ejected from the twin-engine plane and was recovered close to the crash site by a military helicopter crew about two hours later.



Parliament set to vote on Tories' $16-billion fighter jet purchase. Scan the code for the story.

Blakie — a member of the 409 Tactical Fighter Squadron at Cold Lake — was taken to hospital and was expected to be released following an examination.

Capt. Nicole Meszaros, a spokeswoman for CFB Cold Lake, said Blakie was participating in a night training exercise at the time of the crash.

A flight safety team from National Defence Headquarters in Ottawa was to examine the wreckage and determine what caused the crash.

Capt. Keith Hoey, spokesman for the Joint Rescue Co-ordination Centre at CFB Trenton, Ont., said it wasn't clear why the pilot had to eject.

"We don't know what went wrong at this point of time," added Meszaros.

"We don't like to speculate on that... because it could compromise the outcome of the investigation."

Madagascar's military bark has little bite

Attempt to seize control fails as the country votes on a new charter that would put the coup leader in power indefinitely

JEROME DELAY/THE ASSOCIATED PRESS FILE

▶ Andry Rajoelina, civilian leader

Soldiers in Madagascar have often intruded in politics, but their latest attempt is fizzling, leaving a group of officers holed up at a base and the island's civilian leader – who himself took power in a coup 20 months ago – largely ignoring what appears to have been a poorly planned putsch.

The military officers called reporters to a base near the airport Wednesday, prepared to read a list of their demands. Outside the base, the nation was voting on a new constitution proposed by Andry Rajoelina, who grabbed power with military backing last year. The officers' list included a call on soldiers and civilians to rally and topple Rajoelina, but there was little sign of an uprising.

Instead, Malagasy, as the people of this Indian Ocean island are known, kept voting. Thursday, the capital was calm, with no sign Rajoelina's forces would try to oust the mutinous military officers from their base.

The proposed new charter largely resembles the existing constitution, but a key new clause proposes that the current leader of a so-called High Transitional Authority – Rajoelina – would remain in power until a new president is elected. That was seen as a bid by Rajoelina to stay in power indefinitely because there was no certainty new elections would be held.

12-year-old terrorizes in Mexico

'El Ponchis' alludes police while working as executioner for a drug cartel

GERMÁN CHÁVEZ
NEWS@METRONEWS.CA

METRO WORLD NEWS IN MEXICO

He's the sadistic executioner right in the middle of Mexico's gangland drug wars – but he's only 12 years old.

The boy they call 'El Ponchis' (The Cloak), whose real name remains unknown, has been alluding Mexican authorities while cashing in on work for the South Pacific Cartel (SPC), which battles for control of the cocaine trade.

According to Mexican military intelligence, his preferred mode of operation is torturing, slitting victims' throats and leaving their remains on the roadside.

'El Ponchis', who is said to be based in the Mexican state of Morelos, reportedly acts in the company of his sisters, known collectively as 'Las Chavelas'.

In recent days, videos and photographs have surfaced on the Internet apparently showing 'El Ponchis' slashing the throat of one enemy; in one video, the hitman appears with a high-powered rifle, in another – beating a man with a stick.

The video material gave authorities clues to his location. The boy was later detained and mistakenly released by army troops.

New law puts the brakes on auto robberies

Penalties only apply to adults — not the many teenage car thieves arrested in cities like Winnipeg

A new federal law aimed at curbing auto theft and including stiffer penalties for car thieves has passed.

Public Safety Minister Vic Toews announced in Winnipeg that the bill received royal assent Thursday. The provinces and territories will be given time to prepare for the changes before the law comes into effect — the date has not yet been determined.

The legislation includes a minimum six-month jail sentence for anyone convicted a third time of auto theft. It also makes it an offence to alter or destroy a vehicle identification number — a tactic used by thieves who resell vehicles. THE CANADIAN PRESS

China could scuttle Nobel Prize ceremony

Last time winner was unable to accept Nobel Prize was in 1936 Family under surveillance, friends say

The Nobel Peace Prize may not be handed out this year because China is not likely to let anyone from imprisoned award-winner Liu Xiaobo's family attend the ceremony, a Nobel official said, calling China's diplomatic pressure this year unprecedented.

Outraged by the award, Beijing has reportedly clamped down on Liu's relatives and pressured other countries not to send representatives to the Dec. 10 award ceremony in Oslo.

Ambassadors from Russia, Cuba, Kazakhstan, Morocco and Iraq have all declined invitations to the ceremony but didn't specify the reasons, Geir Lundestad, secretary of the Norwegian Nobel Committee told The Associated Press on Thursday.

AFP/GETTY IMAGES

▶ Liu Xiaobo

"For an embassy to actively try to persuade other embassies to not participate in the ceremony is something new," Lundestad said.

The prestigious $1.4 million US award can only be collected by the laureate or close family members.

Liu, a Chinese dissident, is serving an 11-year sentence for subversion after co-authoring an appeal calling for reforms to China's one-party political system. His wife, Liu Xia, has been under house arrest and subject to police escort since the award was announced last month.

Lundestad said no other relatives have announced plans to come to Oslo for the ceremony.

Warrant out on WikiLeaks founder

Sweden's public prosecutor wants to question Julian Assange about rape allegations ◐ Assange's lawyer denies his client is avoiding arrest

LEIF OLDENBURG
@METRONEWS.CA
METRO WORLD NEWS IN SWEDEN

A European arrest warrant has been issued for WikiLeaks founder Julian Assange. The 39-year-old Australian citizen is suspected of rape, molestation and unlawful coercion during a visit to Sweden this summer.

Assange was not present at the hearing. According to WikiLeaks' sources, he is presently in the U.K.

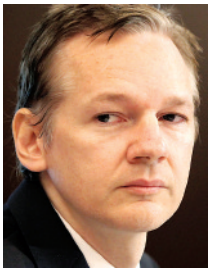
Assange's lawyer, Björn Hurtig, denied his client is staying away on purpose.

"He is a busy person. He can't hide anywhere in the world," he said.

Hurtig will contact Assange to discuss an appeal of the arrest warrant. In a press release on Twitter, Julian Assange's British lawyer Mark Stephens states that his client offered to be questioned by police on several occasions during the past three months.

Earlier this month, Assange told Swedish daily Svenska Dagbladet that he plans to sue the Swedish authorities.

Assange case file



Julian Assange is an Australian citizen, journalist and programmer, and founder of whistleblower website WikiLeaks.

- He has no fixed address and extensively travels between countries.
- WikiLeaks's online publication of classified documents about the wars in Afghanistan and Iraq has angered the Pentagon.

The charges:

- In August 2010, Sweden first issued an arrest warrant for Julian Assange. He was then suspected of raping a woman in the city of Enköping and of molesting a woman in Stockholm.
- The following day, another prosecutor withdrew the arrest warrant and issued an investigation on the molestation charge.
- The woman's attorney appealed the decision and the case was transferred to a special prosecutor who has now issued an international warrant for Assange's arrest on charges of rape, molestation and unlawful coercion.

The investment arm of the Canada Pension Plan has cleared a hurdle on the road to partial ownership of the 407 express toll highway.

DARREN CALABRESE/THE CANADIAN PRESS FILE

▶ Anthony Lacavera, CEO of Globalive, parent company of Wind Mobile, the first of the new players, says this is going to be the most competitive season in wireless in a decade.

Shoppers can get wireless offers matched or bettered, watchers say

Consumers can expect more deals — and maybe more clout — when shopping for mobile phones during the holiday season in the hotly competitive wireless industry.

The season brings in a big chunk of sales for all the carriers and are especially important to the new players trying to win market share away from Rogers, Telus and Bell.

Telecom analyst Brahm Eiley said it's been a year of discounts in wireless offered by both the new and established players.

Combined voice and data plans from the new players can undercut Rogers, Bell and Telus and their discount brands by more than half. The savings could be up to 75 per cent on data plans, Eiley said. THE CANADIAN PRESS

GM shedding the 'Government Motors' moniker

U.S. government made $11.8B selling 358M shares at $33 apiece GM filed for bankruptcy in June 2009

General Motors, the corporate titan that collapsed into bankruptcy only to be saved by Canadian and U.S. taxpayers, returned to life as a public company Thursday in North America's largest initial public offering worth $23 billion US.

The shares headed higher in New York and Toronto, less than a year and a half after a restructuring that saw the company receive billions of dollars from the U.S., Canadian and Ontario governments, close factories, slash jobs and shed billions in debt on both sides of the border.

$33 GM set a price of $33 US per common share on Wednesday, at the high end of a range that had already been increased once due to early investor demand for the shares. In New York, the shares were at $34.26 US and in Toronto they were at $34.01 US at the close of trading Thursday.

"Going public is an important milestone on our way to being a new and different and better GM," GM chief executive Daniel Akerson said.

In Ottawa, Finance Minister Jim Flaherty said the participation of the two Canadian governments in one of the biggest bailouts in corporate history — they sold about 35 million of their shares in Thursday's IPO — helped preserve and restructure the Canadian auto sector.

5 MINUTES WITH: ZARK FATAH

Toronto's nightlife king offers a glimpse into his fabulous life behind the velvet rope.

You're not the only nightlife entrepreneur out there, yet you've been on top for some time. What separates you from the pack?
Our clientele has matured and grown up with us, so we have a trust and credibility with them. They're receptive to what we're doing because we're dedicated to a niche market that's also discerning. They also travel and experience lots of great things so they're always hungry for fresh concepts.

From all your travels, where does Toronto stack up on the international party scene?
Toronto's still a young city and in many ways it's still a conservative market. I think Toronto has really evolved in the last five to eight years, but there's still a ways to go. Too many promoters just play it safe and don't push the envelope and so clients don't come to expect more.

If you were to offer advice to young nightlife upstarts, what would you say?
When I started it was really on the personal, grassroots one-to-one basis of just going out, introducing myself, telling people about what I'm doing and being sincere about my intentions. And then came MySpace, Facebook and then Twitter, and now there are a lot of promoters out there — I call them virtual promoters — that don't actually go out to other parties. So I would say don't do what everyone else is doing. Get out there, hit the ground and actually meet people yourself.

Do you find that being involved in the nightlife world makes it difficult to settle down?
Yeah, definitely. I was in a relationship for two years, but now that I am single again, I've come to the realization that the type of woman I hope to one day marry and be the mother of my children isn't necessarily a woman I'm going to meet hanging out at the club. That's not to say there aren't good women there, but people go to the club to escape and you don't always see their best side.

So what would be a way to present yourself well at a club?
Composure is paramount. You never know when people are watching you. Know your limit. Don't get sloppy. It really comes down to staying in control: Have fun but don't overdo it. ● JORDANA DIVON

TORONTO. I don't think that's a bad idea, but I do think there's a better idea. Why pay students to do well in high school when a high school education can't get you much these days. Rather, pay these same students tuition or at least the books and other fees/expenses post-secondary schools require.

Aguilera tackles acting in Burlesque

Pop star gets starring role in first film Excited to take on new challenge Found it tough to turn off her character while not filming

NED EHRBAR
SCENE@METRONEWS.CA
METRO WORLD NEWS IN LOS ANGELES

With a voice that always seems too big to be coming from her small frame, it's no surprise that Christina Aguilera's first foray into film, this month's Burlesque, would be a musical.

"I'm definitely used to coming from a world where I am able to express myself through song, through vocals, through writing lyrics, through poetry and having the time to do so and focus on myself as an artist," Aguilera says.

"I find it much easier to express myself sometimes through song and through vocalizing my emotions. That's why at a young age when I had a very chaotic childhood, I would turn to song as my release out of that environment."

Aguilera insists she relished the challenges of acting for the first time.

"It's a new thing for me, so I really tried to give myself wholeheartedly," she says, though there was at least one unforeseen side effect of taking on the role of Ali, a young performer fresh off the bus from Iowa who works her way up at a Sunset Strip burlesque club.

"I would get very rambunctious," she says of the having to put her own personality aside to embody Ali.

"I had a lot of pent-up energy, because I was being neglectful of myself, that when I wasn't being Ali on camera I was really antsy."

While she's made a name for herself belting out tunes, Aguilera admits she's not breaking out into song at any opportunity when she's not at work.

"I'm very reserved when it comes to that," she says. "I know there are certain singers that won't shut up, but I'm very reserved when I'm going about my normal life. But then whenever the stage hits or it's time to perform, it just comes up. And out."

Of course, she's not completely mum around the house. She still saves some of her voice for her young son, Max. "I sing him to sleep every night, and my favourite song to sing him is this little, soft lullaby from Mary Poppins called Stay Awake," she says.

And while she's completely committed to Max, Aguilera says she never considered putting her career on hold. "I think it would send the worst message possible to my child," she says.

"… I think part of having kids is creating a good balance so that you can then inspire them to be their own individual and find what they're passionate about and what goals they want to achieve in their lives."

Emma Watson may be leaving Hermione Granger behind on the film set, but not in her heart — the two share a similar passion for learning.

Watson, whose character in the Harry Potter movies made it cool to be a studious teacher's pet, says she's "addicted to knowledge" and motivated to keep learning while doing other film projects.

Watson, who has played Hermione for more than half her life, is a sophomore at Brown University in Rhode Island where she is majoring in history.

Potter gets darker and deeper

Harry Potter And The Deathly Hallows Part 1
Genre: Action/Adventure
Director: David Yates
Stars: Daniel Radcliffe, Emma Watson, Rupert Grint
●●●½

Though magic is still central to the series, the childish joy with which the witches and wizards dispatch their powers is almost entirely absent in the latest entry in J.K. Rowling's towering franchise.

Fortunately, that's a good thing, as the first chapter of this epic two part finale is the darkest, strangest, and possibly even the finest Harry Potter movie to date (though be warned that with a downbeat ending peaking the sense of dread before the triumphant battle in Part 2, there's no escape from the darkness for the kiddies in the audience).

The series is now based entirely around an epic battle between good and evil, and anyone who merely dabbled in the early outings might not even recognize the universe.

Don't expect any handholding either as the filmmakers dive into their story midstream with no attempt to bring the audience up to speed. Almost every member of the epic cast makes a brief appearance, but the bulk of the film is spent with Ron, Hermione and Harry searching for a way to kill Lord Voldemort while struggling with the strain of their quest and maturing sexuality.

How good the film really is can only be determined after part 2 is released in July, but for now this surprisingly intense Harry Potter movie suggests the maturing series will end on a high note

The Next Three Days
Genre: Action
Director: Paul Haggis
Stars: Russell Crowe, Elizabeth Banks
●●

If you chopped off the first half of the film, The Next Three Days would've been a relatively decent thriller. Instead, Crash-director Paul Haggis' drawn-out remake about a college professor (Russell Crowe) cooking up an escape plan for his questionably incarcerated wife (Elizabeth Banks) ends up needlessly overburdened. While Crowe's performance is surely intriguing enough, Haggis's version doesn't commit to either credibility or just being a decent genre film.

Client 9: The Rise And Fall Of Eliot Spitzer
Genre: Documentary
Director: Alex Gibney
Stars: Eliot Spitzer, Joseph Bruno, Ken Langone
●●●

Eliot Spitzer has been little more that comedy cannon fodder over the last few years, but as Alex Gibney's impressive documentary shows that the former governor is more than just a punchline with a built in pun. The film presents Spitzer as a fearless politician who burned one too many high-powered bridges in his quest to clean up Wall Street. A very entertaining and informative doc.

PHIL BROWN

The Light Thief
Genre: Drama
Director: Aktan Abdykalykov
Stars: Aktan Abdykalykov
●●½

The Light Thief is the tale of an optimistic Kyrgyzstani electrician that dreams of building windmills to create sustainable energy when he isn't busy stealing electricity for his impoverished neighbours. When a greedy investor moves in to develop the rural land, the titular character gets caught in the struggle between tradition and progress. The Light Thief may look great but a sluggish pace causes the film's scant 80 minutes to seem pretty inert.

Fighting for what's right in Dagenheim

ANNE BRODIE
SCENE@METRONEWS.CA

Miranda Richardson brings fiery political passion to the role of Barbara Castle, Britain's First Secretary of State in 1968 in the film Made in Dagenham. Castle was the first and only female to hold the position and at a time when women were treated like second class citizens, she was an iron-willed anomaly.

Castle's indefatigable left-wing activism was a natural fit for female Ford factory workers in Dagenham striking for equal pay. Together they brought Ford production to a halt not only in England but around the world. The film is a celebration of their spirit of radical freedom and courage.

"The class war was strongly evident then, too", says Richardson. "Barbara was also struggling with that. There is a class divide, the north-south divide, and the fact that she was a woman trying to make her way in what is largely a man's world. It was in her blood, you know. She attended rallies with her father and she couldn't help herself. She had to do that."

"People talk about Barbara paving the way for Margaret Thatcher. Some say she used her femininity to get what she wanted, but she was a woman and she goes about things differently from men." MIRANDA RICHARDSON

The 52-year-old Richardson says she vaguely remembers Castle, but admits her mind was elsewhere in the '60s.

5 Best Russell Crowe performances

Russell Crowe digs deep and transforms himself for every role he takes on, making decent movies better and great movies excellent. He's so consistently good, even some off-camera antics from time to time don't become a distraction; he never fails to convince us.

With the opening this week of The Next Three Days, here's a look at Crowe's five most captivating performances.

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

L.A. Confidential (1997)

He'd made a name for himself already in Australia with 1992's Romper Stomper, but this is the role that made Crowe famous in America.

As the beefy detective Bud White, he's got a mean streak, but for all the right reasons. He brutally avenges the abuses suffered by battered wives. He reveals his tortured, tender side in his scenes with Kim Basinger, an Oscar-winner for her portrayal as a Veronica Lake look-alike prostitute.

All the characters and motivations are complex in Curtis Hanson's intense, visceral noir, but Bud White oozes moral ambiguity, and Crowe never makes him anything less than fascinating to watch.

The Insider (1999)

Crowe earned his first Academy Award nomination for best actor for playing Big Tobacco whistleblower Jeffrey Wigand.

Michael Mann's smart, suspenseful depiction of real-life events also required Crowe to pack on the pounds, and he steals the show from co-star Al Pacino as a 60 Minutes producer — no easy feat — with his measured performance as a conflicted everyman.

Wigand is tormented by his knowledge of the danger of tobacco but compelled by a nondisclosure agreement to keep his mouth shut, and Crowe plays his ethical dilemma with quiet moodiness.

Gladiator (2000)

A physical and emotional shift in the opposite extreme for Crowe. In Ridley Scott's historical epic, he's muscular, fierce and intimidating as Roman general Maximus.

This is the role that earned him his best-actor Oscar — and the film won five in total, including best picture. It's an enormous, CGI-heavy spectacle, old school in tone but high-tech in its visual trickery. For the most part the film feels silly, over-the-top, mindless and empty, but Crowe grounds it by believably conveying his character's remorse.

While his low rumble of a gravelly voice provides some gravitas, Crowe also gets to scream. A lot.

A Beautiful Mind (2001)

Crowe's transformation into tortured math genius John Forbes Nash Jr. is stunning — reminiscent of the one he'd pulled off two years earlier in The Insider, but even more effective because Nash's story is so much more personal.

It's almost too bad that he won the best-actor Oscar for Gladiator, because he deserved the award even more for his work here. Aging on screen over a period of nearly 50 years, Crowe turns Nash from a swaggering genius to a shaken shell of a man, and the disintegration is believable and compelling. Prior to Frost/Nixon, this was director Ron Howard's crowning achievement.

3:10 to Yuma (2007)

The original 1957 Western didn't need to be remade, but director James Mangold not only remains true to its roots but expands on them in ways that are thrilling and thoroughly entertaining.

Crowe, as the dangerous Ben Wade, does whatever he wants, whenever he wants. He comes off like a gentleman, quoting scripture and drawing sketches of the people he meets on his travels. But he's still a killer through and through, and Crowe, with his infinite capacity for both charm and darkness, reveals all the colours of his character's personality subtly and brilliantly. His mano-a-mano verbal sparring with fellow heavyweight actor Christian Bale, as the rancher tasked with escorting Wade to the train that'll take him to prison, is a joy to watch.

In Focus

RICHARD CROUSE
SCENE@METRONEWS.CA

PUBLIC TAKE ON PRIVATE SCHOOLS

Hogwarts, a school of magic founded over a thousand years ago by a quartet of the greatest witches and wizards of their age, will once again be front and centre when Harry Potter and the Deathly Hallows: Part 1 opens on Friday. It's the screen's most famous private school, but it isn't the only cinematic bastion of readin', writin' and 'rithmetic.

The granddaddy of the modern prep school movie is 1972's A Separate Peace, a dull film, based on a not-so-dull book by John Knowles, starring Parker Stevenson, which was later remade as a better-than-average made-for-TV movie.

Without the original film's portrayal of Devon Academy we might not have Dead Poet's Society (set at "the best prep school in America") or any other classroom drama that teaches life lessons alongside the three R's.

For instance, the all-star students — Brendan Fraser, Ben Affleck, Matt Damon and Chris O'Donnell — in School Ties learn a lesson not on the curriculum: the power of prejudice. Fraser plays David Greene, a Jewish student at a waspy prep school in the 1950's who becomes the victim of vicious anti-Semitism.

Most noteworthy because of its soon-to-be-famous cast, this came out five years before Good Will Hunting made Affleck and Damon superstars, and a year before Chris O'Donnell was nominated for a Golden Globe for his other prep school drama Scent of a Woman — the movie's message of tolerance resonates when set against today's recent news stories about school bullying.

But don't think all private school movies are about "carpe diem" and uplifting messages. Cruel Intentions sees a group of good looking learners engage in a dangerous game of seduction and betrayal. And the only lesson Chris O'Donnell learns in Scent of a Woman — whose all male boarding school scenes were actually shot at one of the U.S.'s oldest all-female boarding schools — is how to avoid being crushed by the weight of Al Pacino's over acting.

Most vapid, however, is Private School, starring Phoebe Cates and Matthew Modine as star-crossed students from the Cherryvale Academy for Women and the Freemount Academy for Men. Completely devoid of merit, it most famously features gratuitous topless horseback riding and a female shower scene; behaviour Albus Dumbledore would certainly frown on. Critics too frowned upon the movie. One writer said, "hardcore porn has a better reputation" than this teen sex comedy.

7th heaven

The Expendables

DVD
It's like you died and went to action-hero heaven. The Expendables — with a muscled-up lineup that includes Sylvester Stallone, Jason Statham, Jet Li, Dolph Lundgre, Steve Austin and others — is available on DVD and Blu-ray next week.

Harry Potter

Sales
The newest installment of the Harry Potter franchise is now in theatres, and part two is due out next year. So we decided to do the math to see how much the whole series – books and merchandising have made to date. Our estimate: $24 billion.

iPod Nano

Tech
Looking for a gift for that special someone in your life? It may not sound romantic, but the iPod Nano is new and improved, and now with a touch screen. To make it a little more personal, why not fill it with all your loved one's favourite songs before wrapping it?

The Little Prince

Books
His name is the Little Prince, and he comes from outer space, and now fans of Antoine de Saint-Exupéry's extraterrestrial visitor can enjoy the adventure in a pop-up version of the book.

Boutiques.com

Fashion
If you'd love being a fly on the wall during your favourite celebrity's shopping spree, than bookmark Boutiques.com. Earlier this week, Google launched the online shopping platform, where readers and (most notably) celebrities, designers, retailers and fashion bloggers, curate their own little shops with items on their wish lists.

Stay warm

Style
There is no denying it; fall is well into its middle-age and winter is beginning to nip on its heels.
But let's face it; who doesn't like wearing thick sweaters once that cold wind blows? There's no better time than now to invest in a warm, wooly one to keep that bone-chilling cold at bay.

Music

Barrington Levy
Saturday, Sound Academy

The world has heard Barrington Levy's high-pitched teenage voice in Collie Weed mature into the legendarily soulful "mellow canary" sound he has now. Though he has dramatically slowed his musical output, he's a sustained presence in the reggae community and continues to lend his voice to other artists like Handsome Boy Modeling School and Rascalz. $34.25. 8 p.m.

Sarah Harmer
Saturday, Massey Hall

Since her Polaris Prize nomination in 2005 for I'm a Mountain, Sarah Harmer's only musical appearances have been as a backup artist for the likes of Neko Case, The Weakerthans and Great Lake Swimmers — indie staples who are all newer members to the scene than this Burlington stalwart. After a five-year hiatus, Harmer has returned with her recent album, Oh Little Fire,and a much-anticipated North American tour. With Hey Rosetta! $42.50. 8 p.m.

Cowboy Junkies
Friday, Koerner Hall

For those who've lumped the Cowboy Junkies into the melancholy country-folk category, Renmin Park will come as a surprise. The album draws its title from a park in Jinjiang, China, where guitarist/songwriter Michael Timmins fell in love with traditional Chinese music. Renmin Park is the first instalment of The Nomad Series, a planned four-album opus to celebrate their 25th anniversary. $35-$55. 8 p.m.

Bring Me The Horizon
Friday, Kool Haus

The U.K.'s crown princes of metalcore, Bring Me The Horizon's latest LP, There Is A Hell, Believe Me I've Seen It. There Is A Heaven, Let's Keep It A Secret has what's got to be the longest title since Fiona Apple's 437-character When The Pawn... in 1999. If it weren't for their jackhammer riffage, or Oliver Sykes' disembowelling scream, we might think BMTH were going soft. But that's a big "if." $18.50. 5 p.m. All ages.

Caron Wheeler at Hot Stepper Productions' 15th Anniversary

Best known as the voice of Soul II Soul hits including Back to Life, Caron Wheeler has also recorded two solo albums and worked with acts including The Jam, Erasure, P.I.L., Maxi Priest and Erykah Badu. She'll perform songs both old and new alongside DJs including fellow Soul II Soul collaborator Simon Laws, a.k.a. The Funky Ginger. Saturday, at 99 Sudbury, $25 for advance tickets at Play de Record, Cosmos, Delphic, Spago and milkaudio.com.

CD Release
More Or Les

MC, producer and DJ More Or Les has been at the heart of this city's hip-hop underground for a decade. The witty, rich-voiced Les returned to the studio to record his third full-length, Brunch With A Vengeance; it's an effortlessly diverse album, filled with conscious commentary, heavy doses of humour and guest spots by many people appearing at this very show. Saturday at Rancho Relaxo. $10 (includes CD).

Prevent COLDS & FLUS

#51

The only cold medicine with a money-back guarantee. Four medical doctors that wrote in their book SHARK LIVER OIL that you can prevent colds and flus. Dr. Hubert wrote since his own high-school age children took shark liver oil they have no more colds. Dr. Haimes's grandchildren have been taking shark liver oil for 6 months and he writes they have no more infection of any kind. Read on the Bell website: "I had 3-4 flus every winter. None last 5 years." "Amazing! All of us have no more colds." "No more asthma, no puffer, no cold, no flus, changed my life". In North America this is a by-product from the restaurant industry. No sharks are caught for their liver or their cartilage.

#52

IMMUNE BOOSTER

Many medical experts are quoted on the Bell website saying our immune system is the first and last defense against all illnesses. The Bell Supreme Immune Booster #52 helps to rebuild the immune system when people are going through cancer treatment, which depletes or destroys the immune system a person may have had.

■ Registered nurse wrote at the first sign of a cold or flu like symptoms I take Virux Viral Infections #42. It stops it right away. This product has been a great help. We know allopathic medicine does not have an answer for viruses, but nature does, using God's pharmacy is the way to go. Janna Dodds, 45, Clifford, ON ■ No more cold sores, no more colds. When I felt a cold coming on I started taking #42 and the cold stayed away. Another great bonus , my cold sores stopped completely Carrie Shoonbaert, 32, Deloraine, MB. ■ I got herpes and truly thought my life was over. SNORING? SLEEP APNEA?

Most older men and many women snore and have sleep apnea (gasping for air) :

To my surprise, after taking Bell Snoring & Sleep Apnea Relief #23 I really didn't snore or gasp for air anymore. I sleep through the night and feel rested and refreshed in the morning. Mark Wilson, 40, Hudson, NH ■ Sleep apnea capsules worked first night! For last 15 years I had sleep apnea and my doctor made me buy a CPAP machine, which I could not use. Finally Bell #23 helped the first night and every night thereafter. Like a miracle. Unbelievable. Karen Braun, 67, Glace Bay, NS ■ For 20 years I was waking up frequently gasping for air. During the day I would start napping every time I would sit down, because I was tired. Since taking Bell #23 sleeping 6 hours is heaven. It made a substantial change in my life. Mary C. Myrick, 62, Jackson, MS ■ It is such a joy not having to use the CPAP machine. I have had sleep apnea for 10 years. I was skeptical about Bell Snoring & Sleep Apnea Eze #23. After using it for 3 weeks my wife says there is no more snoring or gasping for breath or stoppage of breathing. It is such a joy to be able to roll to left or right with no hose or mask to deal with and can get up with no restrictions. Thank you Bell for a great relief. I suggest anyone with these problems to try it. You will be overjoyed with the results. Wayne Burse, 63, Beamsville, ON

AMAs set to take stage on Sunday

Rihanna, Santana and Pink prep unique performances for American Music Awards

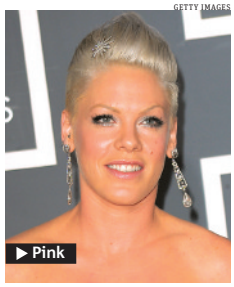
The American Music Awards are typically so packed with performances, the actual awards are almost an afterthought.

That's likely to be the case again this year, with at least 16 performances planned for Sunday night's ceremony at the Nokia Theatre.

"Each performance is like a show unto itself," said producer Larry Klein, adding that last year's show boasted a mile-long stack of set pieces.

His team encourages each artist to come up with a unique concept and look for their performance, and almost anything goes.

"We're the only show that gives each individual artist the creativity and the right to collaborate and come up with something great that's specifically done just for them," he said.



For Pink, that means a stage full of skateboard ramps, skateboarders and aerial artists.

Another performer (Klein wouldn't say who) will appear on an industrial set with moving boxes and elevator lifts.

"Each individual (set) has its own specific look. Nothing is duplicated."
LARRY KLEIN, AMA PRODUCER

Carlos Santana, who is performing with Gavin Rossdale, says he doesn't have any special tricks up his sleeve other than to envelop the audience with music and "make the females happy."

"That delicious sensuousness, it's a whole galaxy in itself," he said in an interview. "When Gavin sings Bang a Gong and Santana plays, you set the table... It's very sensuous, and that's one of the main ingredients to make women happy."

Here's how to show you can dance

A past winner offers some tips

Planning to try out at the So You Think You Can Dance auditions on Saturday at the Metro Toronto Convention Centre's John Bassett Theatre? Here are some audition tips from season three winner and Toronto native Denys Drozdyuk.

Be yourself
It is important to think about what you are going to say with your dancing and how. How are you going to stand out from other dancers? Know who you are and show it during the competition.

Don't expect too much
It is crucially important for you to not pressure yourself to get into the next round. You should not be dancing for the results. You should be dancing to share yourself and your art with others.

Go beyond steps
Make sure to show that you are not only physically involved, but that you are really using energy in your body and in space. Take your dancing beyond steps. Create energy, atmosphere, mood, etc.

Work on your Solo
Be sure to rehearse your solo many times. It is better to practice it numerous times because dancing in front of judges and the audience will make you nervous. Practice will help you know that you really worked on your solo and are ready to show it.

Warm up
It is crucial for your body and mind to be in a very ready state. Warm up and stretch really well before you arrive, because you do not know if you will have time to do it there. METRO

No Thanksgiving wish for Lovato

Disney star to remain at treatment centre

It looks like Demi Lovato isn't getting her wish to go home for Thankgiving.

The Disney star will reportedly spend the holiday at the treatment center where she's addressing her "emotional and physical issues." But there is some good news: Her family will "be there to celebrate Thanksgiving with her," according to People magazine. Her rep also told the magazine she has more work to do. METRO

Eva Longoria has reportedly filed for divorce from Tony Parker.

Is Tony Parker just a flirt or a cheater?

Now that Eva Longoria has reportedly filed for divorce, folks close to husband Tony Parker are insisting the basketball player wasn't cheating, according to Hollyscoop.

"They sent each other messages," a source close to Parker says of his interactions with a mutual friend of the couple. "It was flirtatious, but he never did anything with her." METRO

Portia DeGeneres refuses to speak with male reporters

While in Australia to promote her new book, Portia DeGeneres is causing quite a stir by reportedly refusing to speak with male interviewers, according to the Herald Sun.

And at least one of the spurned interviewers, morning show host David Koch, is upset enough to cry foul.

"If a male said, 'I don't want to be interviewed by a woman', there would be a massive outcry of discrimination," Koch says.

"Obviously she has got issues and I feel quite sorry for her." METRO

Small changes make a big difference

The Eat This series makes food choices easy Advice for eating out or cooking at home

Looks like Americans really do like being told what to eat.

Three years after first telling readers to pick McNuggets over Filet-O-Fish and the low-carb slice over the deep dish pizza, books in the Eat This, Not That! series continue to offer sometimes surprising restaurant and supermarket tips.

The latest entries: the 2011 edition of Eat This, Not That! and a second Cook This, Not That! cookbook offers lower-calorie versions of restaurant favourites like burgers and calzones.

That's 10 books and more than six million copies in a series that still sells like hotcakes (which readers are advised to eat with fruit on top, not sugary supermarket syrup).

The "Eat This" concept is simple and clever.

Compare similar foods — maybe two sandwiches from the same chain, or two canned soups or chocolate bars — and list the calories, fat and salt in each.

The healthier choice is tagged "Eat This" and the one clogged with bad stuff gets a "Not That!"

So, Krispy Kreme customers are told to go for the sugar doughnut over the powdered cake doughnut to save 90 calories, while Reese's Peanut Butter Cups gets the nod over Reese's Fast Break bar for a 50-calorie savings.

"Is it the healthiest food imaginable? No," says series co-author David Zinczenko. "But if you try to tell people to put down the burger and go eat some broccoli, they're never going to make any realistic progress."

Zinczenko, editor-in-chief of Men's Health magazine, instead educates readers so they can make better — or, in some cases, less bad — choices at a given restaurant and at the supermarket.

Order a Pesto Turkey Bullet with tomato basil soup at Quiznos instead of the Turkey Club Torpedo and you're avoiding 360 calories. Do it 10 times and you have avoided gaining more than a pound.

Food in brief

A pretty glass jar of basil, garlic or rosemary packed in oil is a popular hostess gift, but health Canada warns that if the food hasn't been properly prepared, canned, heat-processed, bottled or stored, it can cause serious illness, such as botulism.

▶ Stuffed Dates from Eat This, Not That!

Dates, not mushrooms

The folks behind the Eat This, Not That! book series say these indulgent treats are a better choice for a holiday party nibble than the stuffed mushrooms you often encounter. And they are truly delicious.

Start to finish: 30 minutes

Preparation:

1. Heat oven to 220 C (425 F).
2. Using a sharp paring knife, make a slit across the length of each date so that the pocket in the fruit is exposed. Remove the pit inside the date and replace it with an almond.
3. Spoon about 7 ml (1/2 tbsp) of the blue cheese into the pocket over and around the almond in each date. The dates should be tightly stuffed, but not overflowing with cheese. Place each date at the bottom of a bacon strip half and roll up as tightly as possible. Secure with a toothpick.
4. Place dates on a non-stick baking sheet and bake for about 20 minutes or until the bacon has rendered fat and is brown and crispy. Top each with a bit of black pepper and serve.

Ingredients :

- 8 Medjool dates
- 8 almonds
- 50 ml (1/4 cup) crumbled blue cheese
- 4 strips bacon, halved crosswise
- Ground black pepper, to taste

Makes 4 servings.

▶ The Museum Without Walls audio tour in Philadelphia also showcases this iconic LOVE sculpture by Robert Indiana.

A museum without the walls

Philadelphia's new 'museum' is free, outdoors and open 24-7 via maps and audio downloads

Ever walk by a statue and wonder, "What made this guy so important?" Or pass by a modern sculpture in a park and think, "What on earth is that supposed to be?"

Now in Philadelphia, there's an app for that. And similar apps exist for art and landmarks in other cities, from Seattle to New York.

In Philadelphia, the month-old Museum Without Walls audio program was created to be used like a customizable museum that's free and never closes. Its self-guided audio tours are available 24-7 in several different formats: You can call phone numbers listed with each sculpture, use a free smartphone app, download the audio at museumwithoutwallsaudio.org to an MP3 player, or scan a special bar code (known as a QR or quick response code) on the free Museum Without Walls map at locations around the city.

The project's first phase includes 51 outdoor sculptures at 35 stops along a five-kilometre stretch of the bustling Benjamin Franklin Parkway, from downtown to leafy Fairmount Park, a route popular with bicyclists, runners and walkers.

The first stop is Robert Indiana's iconic LOVE sculpture. Others along the way include Auguste Rodin's "The Thinker" and Emmanuel Fremiet's "Joan of Arc," and works by Henry Moore, Mark di Suvero, Alexander Calder and Augustus Saint-Gaudens.

"The excellent quality of the recordings and innovative use of multiple media in the Museum Without Walls make it a valuable model to learn from."
KYRIE THOMPSON KELLETT OF THE OREGON MUSEUM OF SCIENCE AND INDUSTRY

Three-to-five minute segments voiced by people connected to the works – historians, curators, the artist himself (they're all men so far) or a living relative – explain each piece and give context. On the website, visitors can upload their own pictures and add their own thoughts about the sculptures.

Indiana, for example, explains how his early years as a newspaper copy boy sparked his interest in the typography that became a recurring theme in his work. In each case, the segments sound like a conversation instead of a lecture.

City resident Ann Sebatino plugged into the Indiana podcast during her lunch hour and gave it high marks. "You get a lot of cool information in just a couple of minutes," she says.

"Our main goal was to make the content really great," said Penny Balkin Bach of the Fairmount Park Art Association, a 128-year-old non-profit that acquires, interprets and maintains more than 200 works of art citywide.

▶ Use the month of November to get a head start on your holiday shopping, either online, or in the malls when the crowds are thinner.

If the mall is 'beginning to look a lot like Christmas' and you're hearing Jingle Bells on the radio, you know 'the most wonderful time of the year' is just around the corner...

'Twas the month before Christmas

This year, make the most of November by planning ahead. Here are a few things you can do this month to save yourself some stress so you can enjoy the season:

1 Clean up and declutter. If you're expecting a smorgasbord of visitors over the holidays, November is a good time to rid your house of dust mites and clear your living room of the last year's worth of clutter. Don't forget to use disinfectant on doorknobs and countertops — cold and flu season is on its way.

2 Try out new recipes. Now is the time to perfect a recipe you've always wanted to try so you'll have something to "wow" party guests at the Christmas potluck.

3 Write your greeting cards. Sending a card in the mail to a long-distance friend is a thoughtful gesture that shows you care. It may seem too early now, but it will pay off when you're too busy to do them later.

4 Determine who you need to buy gifts for. Make a list for all the family members and friends you need to shop for. Don't forget people you would like to appreciate such as the main caregiver who looks after your loved one at a seniors' home, your children's teachers, and their bus driver.

5 Hit the mall or shop virtually. Take advantage of the smaller crowds this month or better yet, avoid them by shopping from the comfort of your home. Keep an eye out for free shipping deals and special online buys. Or check local flyers for coupons.

6 Consider alternative gifts. Find out what your friend or loved one is passionate about and make an online gift in their name to a charity that supports that passion.

▶ Show you care by taking the time to wrap your perfectly purchased presents.

Impress with gift wrapping skill

Make your loved ones feel special with a beautifully papered present this holiday season

One of the most special parts of the holiday season is the giving and receiving of gifts.

A perfectly wrapped present not only adds to that excitement, but it shows friends and family how important they are to you. That is why trend guru Lynn Spence is encouraging all Canadians to consider wrapping their presents this holiday season, rather than using a gift bag.

"People underestimate the value of wrapping gifts," says Spence, style expert and frequent guest on CityTV's CityLine. "Giving someone a wrapped gift shows them you care, and nothing can replace the exhilaration of imagining what's inside, and the joy created when the gift is unwrapped and discovered."

"I really believe in making it more personal, after all you took the time to choose the gift, why not spend a little time making it stand out?" adds Spence.

"People underestimate the value of wrapping gifts."
LYNN SPENCE

For example, use an inexpensive reproduction map to cover a gift for the seasoned traveller. Top a gift with a photograph as a way to share a favourite memory or to provide a hint of the gift inside.

"Don't be afraid to use your imagination and be creative," suggests Spence.

Remember, you don't have to wrap gifts alone. Invite your friends over for a night of cocktails, appetizers and fun and wrap your gifts together.

Wrap it up in style

Mix it Up
Move away from the traditional wrapping paper by incorporating new textures such as rice, foil and matte papers into your wrapping repertoire this year.
Mixed colours and patterns are also a great way to add visual interest to your presents.

Experiment with a pliable, fabulous oversized printed wallpaper tied with a paisley ribbon for a fun, unexpected look.

Go Glam
Add luxury to your packages with glamorous materials such as metallic papers that will make anyone feel spoiled. Fashion inspired animal print or sophisticated quilted paper will look luxurious under the tree. Add a satin, taffeta or velvet ribbon or pearls and crystals to add holiday luxe to your gifts.

Au Natural
For a more organic eco look, use recycled papers or materials such as linen, Kraft paper, fabric remnants, burlap or a fabulous vintage scarf to wrap gifts.

Make It Last
The joy of giving is always in style but before you start wrapping gifts, Lynn offers one final piece of advice.

"Make sure to use a quality tape to ensure your packages stay sealed and look great. You can be sure that no one is peeking into that gorgeous gift before the special day arrives."

Creating traditions

Do things your family will remember for years to come

The holidays are the perfect time to take a breather – yes, that's right. Take a few minutes and think about what means the most to you and your family. You probably will find that the things that are the most meaningful are the memories you've shared through the years. Often the gifts are soon forgotten, but decorating the tree with your kids' handmade decorations every year or serving a special eggnog recipe in your grandmother's silver punch bowl will usually be the rituals that you treasure.

"What is so awesome about family traditions is that they can be whatever you want them to be," says Sandy Sandler, founder of Crafters 4 Kids. "Even if your family never had a special tradition, it's fun to start off with a new tradition that you will carry forward.

Here are a few ideas for creating great holiday traditions to incorporate into your own family's holiday celebrations.

"What is so awesome about family traditions is that they can be whatever you want them to be. "
SANDY SANDLER, CRAFTERS 4 KIDS

Create a written record

"Have everyone write something down before dinner that they are thankful for and read it before starting dinner," Sandler suggests.

Giving everyone time to think about this and actually write it down makes it more meaningful and makes people feel more at ease than they would be if they had to think of things on the spur of the moment. Keep these notes and bring them out on different occasions. It's amazing to see how everyone's lives evolve from year to year.

Do it for the kids

When you create holiday traditions for the youngest members of your family, you will be instilling memories in them for years to come. A favourite tradition could be started with close family friends who gather together all the neighbourhood kids for a special party during December. Each child could sign their name in "Santa's Big Book" and write down what they want Santa to bring that year.

Then "magically" Santa can appear, take each child on his knee and read aloud what the child had written.

Take pictures

Sandler also suggests taking pictures of everyone each year at the holiday dinner and then using that picture for the following year's place setting. Family pictures always are treasured as presents, too.

One more idea

Start a collection

This is one of the easiest ways to carry on traditions from one year to the next. Find a unique "collectible," and add to it each year.

It can be as simple as unwrapping your kids' handmade ornaments and decorating a Charlie Brown tree or as elaborate as setting up tables of snow villages complete with lights and trains.

Five ways the Argos could win

The Alouettes may be the favourite to win Sunday's East final, but that doesn't mean Argonauts don't have a shot at pulling off an upset

DARRYL DYCK/THE CANADIAN PRESS

GO DEEP, CLEO, GO DEEP

If the Argos play the rope-a-dope game they used against Hamilton last week, the Als will eat them alive, says TSN analyst Duane Forde.

"The Argos have had some success against Montreal by being more aggressive offensively," Forde said. "They have to continue to do that."

Argo quarterback Cleo Lemon has had some success against the Als — five of his 15 touchdown passes came against Montreal — and has opened it up more on Montreal's suspect defensive backs.

RICK EGLINTON/TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

▶ Cleo Lemon breaks free against Hamilton last Sunday.

JEFF MCINTOSH/THE CANADIAN PRESS

MAKE LIFE TOUGH FOR AC

Nobody is more effective in controlling the tempo of the game than Montreal QB Anthony Calvillo, who tears defences apart with his short passing game.

"If they let him sit back there and find his receivers, it will be a long day," said Argo radio analyst Peter Martin. "They have to go after him."

RICK MADONIK/TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

STOP BEING SO CHARITABLE

This could be the rallying cry for the Argos against any team. They had the second-highest turnover total in the league, but were an astonishing 9-0 in games in which they turned over the ball fewer times than the opposition. But it's essential against Montreal, which has feasted on Argo turnovers this year.

GRAHAM HUGHES/THE CANADIAN PRESS

SECOND THAT EMOTION

Montreal linebacker Diamond Ferri said this week that Cleo Lemon would be "shark bait" on Sunday.

That's the kind of thing the Argos have been feeding off lately, enjoying the underdog role and using it to their advantage. It's the kind of thing that often turns underdogs into victors.

FRANK GUNN/THE CANADIAN PRESS

FROM BLACK HOLE TO RED ZONE

Simply put, the Argos have to start scoring more points inside the other team's 20-yard line. They were there four times against Hamilton last week and managed only one touchdown. That won't do the job against Montreal.

TORONTO MAPLE LEAFS	NJ
LEAFS	DEVILS

Jonas Gustavsson filled in admirably for the injured J.S. Giguere, stopping 29 shots Thursday as the Toronto Maple Leafs beat the New Jersey Devils 3-1. It was the team's second straight victory after an ugly stretch of eight games without a win.

The Maple Leafs will be relying heavily on Gustavsson while Giguere recovers from a groin strain. Giguere is expected to be out one to two weeks.

Mikhail Grabovski, Phil Kessel and Kris Versteeg scored for Toronto (7-8-3). Nazem Kadri added two assists.

Dainius Zubrus had the lone goal in reply for the struggling Devils (5-12-2).

The mounting problems for New Jersey might have got even bigger. Already hampered by injuries, goaltender Martin Brodeur was replaced by Johan Hedberg after two periods — although no reason for the change was provided. Brodeur watched the final 20 minutes from the end of the bench.

Versteeg scored his fifth goal of the season on Hedberg with less than seven minutes to play in regulation to ice the victory. He one-timed a shot on the power play, giving Toronto six goals in its last 11 opportunities with the man advantage.

A game between two of the lowest-scoring teams in the league delivered as expected — tight-checking hockey with little offensive flair. THE CANADIAN PRESS

PATRICK CHAN'S BIG CHANCE

Field of Play

SCOTT RUSSELL

Canada's boy wonder of figure skating will soon get the opportunity to prove he's ready to be the main man.

Patrick Chan competes in the pivotal Grand Prix of Russia this weekend in Moscow. If he's successful, he'll be off to the final in Beijing to serve notice that in the post-Olympic rush, he's capable of being the next great champion.

Chan still has some convincing to do.

"I'm not a great traveller," he admitted after claiming the Skate Canada title in Kingston. "It'll be tough in Moscow."

The quad jump is finally in his competitive repertoire but it's far from a sure thing.

And in claiming the Skate Canada crown for the second time, there were some miscues that nearly brought him down. In particular, a tentative short program caused Chan to come from behind to grasp victory on friendly ice.

In his exhibition performance at Kingston he looked more relaxed and playful than at any time in the previous year. He skated to the song, Don't Worry, Be Happy.

DAVE SANDFORD/GETTY IMAGES

▶ Patrick Chan during the Skate Canada competition in October.

"I guess that's why I put this together with choreographer Lori Nichol," Chan smiled. "It's a whole new approach for me this season. You might say it's a new philosophy. I don't want to be worried about things but instead I want to be happy about skating."

Indeed, Chan faces enormous pressure every time he competes.

At the opening press conference for Skate Canada he was the only athlete anyone wanted to talk to. The rest of the Canadian team, which had just been introduced, was all but ignored by the scrum.

Chan's opening performance in the wake of all the attention fell flat in more ways than one.

He's a skater who is so talented that he can often recover from a bad outing.

But as the stakes get higher it won't be so easy for Chan. Now is the time for this supremely gifted athlete to bear down and convince the world that he's a gritty competitor.

It means stepping up in Russia.

"I don't think he'll want to back into the Grand Prix final by finishing fourth," shrugged Michael Slipchuk, Skate Canada's high-performance director.

"Patrick needs to get to Beijing by winning in Moscow."

Make no mistake. This is Patrick Chan's big chance to prove he's as good as we all think he is.

Today's horoscope

♈ Aries March 21-April 20 You will be swamped with interesting offers today. Go for something a little quirky. It will appeal to your sense of adventure.

♉ Taurus April 21-May 21 Good fortune of one sort or another is heading your way and with the Sun and Uranus on the best possible terms you are sure to be surprised by how quickly it arrives and how dramatically it changes your life.

♊ Gemini May 22-June 21 Sometimes you can be a bit outspoken, which generally is a good thing, but you would be wise to watch what you say today. Not everyone is ready for your message.

♋ Cancer June 22-July 22 You don't have to be perfect in everything you do. Both at home and at work you will achieve more if you stop fretting and just act.

♌ Leo July 23-Aug.23 Isn't it time you got started on bringing some kind of dream into physical being? You have thought about it and planned it in your mind long enough – now you must act, and act quickly.

♍ Virgo Aug. 24- Sept. 22 How serious are you about your aims and ambitions? Serious enough to risk everything you have accomplished up until now? That's the kind of motivation you will need to move up to the next level.

♎ Libra Sept. 23-Oct. 23 There is something you have wanted to do for years but for one reason or another never quite go around to. You must get your act together and show the world what you can do.

♏ Scorpio Oct. 24-Nov. 22 If you trust your instincts and follow your hunches you can achieve great things today. The Sun in your sign, allied to Uranus in Pisces, will inspire you. Fame and fortune await.

♐ Sagittarius Nov. 23-Dec. 21 The past few weeks have not been easy but now you can sense that a change is coming. When the Sun moves into your sign early next week you'll feel free to be yourself again.

♑ Capricorn Dec. 22-Jan. 20 This is no time for regret or remorse. What's done is done and cannot be undone, so forget about the past and think only of the future.

♒ Aquarius Jan. 21-Feb. 18 Uranus, your ruler, is on fine form today, so be true to your sign and do something out of the ordinary – the kind of thing no one would expect. Career-wise and money-wise you could hit the big time.

♓ Pisces Feb. 19-March 20 What is the one thing you desire more than anything else? Are you close to getting it yet? If not, don't worry because the breakthrough you've been waiting for is coming. SALLY BROMPTON

[Δ]48-Month Installment Plan ("Plan"): 48-Month Installment Plan ("Plan") offered through Dell Financial Services Canada Limited ("DFS"), a separate entity, to qualified customers approved by DFS in its sole discretion. Minimum transaction amount of $499 is required. No down payment required. Monthly payment set out in the ad is based on a Plan interest rate of 13.99% per year and an advance equal to the advertised price for a specific product configuration. Interest rates and monthly payments under the Plan will vary, depending on amount advanced and customer's credit worthiness. Representative example of a Plan: $999 advanced @ 13.99% per year: $27.29 monthly payment, total payable is $1309.92, total cost of borrowing is $310.92. Terms subject to error and change without notice. Please contact Dell for more details. NO INTEREST FOR 12 MONTHS ON INSPIRON SYSTEMS ("Promo Interest Offer"), on approved credit (O.A.C.), subject to certain conditions. Offered through Dell Financial Services Canada Limited ("DFS"), a separate legal entity, to qualified customers approved by DFS in its sole discretion. Only available to customers outside Quebec who enter into a 48 month Installment Plan Agreement with DFS ("Plan Agreement") for qualifying advances for Inspiron purchases from Dell from November 12, 2010 until November 25, 2010, 10 pm EST; not available on orders or financing entered into prior to this promotional period. A minimum transaction amount of $799 is required and transaction must include an Inspiron system. Interest rates and monthly payments under the Plan Agreement will vary, depending on a mount advanced and customer's creditworthiness. Representative example of a Plan Agreement:$999 advanced @ 13.99% per year: $27.29 monthly payment, total payable is $1309.92; total cost of borrowing is $310.92. Pursuant to the Promo Interest Offer, interest charges accruing on an amount advanced under the Plan Agreement will be forgiven for a period of 12 months from the date of the initial advance (the "Period") IF the following conditions are met: (i) during the Period, the borrower makes each minimum monthly payment under the Plan Agreement by their respective due dates; AND (ii) prior to the end of the Period, the borrower repays in full the balance owing under the Plan Agreement. Failure to meet either of these conditions will negate the Promo Interest Offer and all terms and conditions of the Plan Agreement will apply, including interest charges, at the Plan Agreement interest rate, accrued and calculated daily from the date of the initial advance. Terms subject to error and change without notice. Call Dell for full details. *Prices/Orders: Offers available only in Canada for specified time period.
